Extended forecast – The biggest change was to include a slight (20%) chance for an afternoon shower/T-storm to the Friday forecast. For this weekend, the forecast will continue to maintain the very slight (15%) shower/T-storm threat, although dry conditions likely prevail during this period. Temperatures each day should reach the upper 80s to near 90 degrees. Generally light winds are expected through the weekend, although a few gusts closer to 15 mph could occur on Friday and Sunday.

Forecast prepared by meteorologist Kyle Koval.
